Article 2 These measures apply to all employees of the company for various expense reimbursements arising from official business travel and business entertainment. Overseas business travel expense reimbursements shall also be governed by these measures.

Chapter II Expense Definitions and Reimbursement Scope

Article 3 "Travel transportation expenses" refer to the round-trip transportation costs between the place of departure and the destination incurred by employees on official business travel, including air, rail, and road public transportation costs, as well as reasonable local transportation costs at the destination (such as taxis and public transit).

Article 4 "Accommodation expenses" refer to costs incurred by employees for staying at hotels, inns, or other lodging facilities at the business travel destination. Article 5 "Meals and entertainment expenses" refer to dining costs incurred to entertain clients, partners, or business associates for business activities. Meals and entertainment expenses must have a clear business purpose. When submitting for reimbursement, the entertained parties, number of persons, and

- (3) The department head shall review the authenticity, reasonableness, and relevance to official business of the expenses, and sign to confirm upon approval;
- (4) The Finance Department shall review the completeness of reimbursement materials, compliance of receipts, and accuracy of amounts;
- (5) After Finance Department review and approval, reimbursement shall be processed according to the company's payment procedures, with funds remitted to the employee's designated bank account.

Article 8 Reimbursement applications shall be submitted within thirty working days after the expense is incurred. For late submissions, approval from both the department head and the Finance Department is required before acceptance.

Chapter IV Multi-Person Expense Reimbursement Rules

Article 9 Expenses from business activities participated in by multiple persons (such as group meals and entertainment, collective transportation, etc.) may be reimbursed uniformly by one designated handling officer.

Article 11 For business entertainment expenses jointly participated in by personnel from different departments during business travel, the expenses may be reimbursed uniformly by the primary person in charge. Cost allocation shall be determined according to the primary business affiliation of the participating personnel, or as mutually agreed among the relevant departments.
