

Employee Travel & External Expert Consulting Fee Reimbursement Policy

1. Purpose

To standardize the reimbursement of gift procurement and environmental maintenance expenses in business activities within the Middle East region (including Egypt, Saudi Arabia, etc.) and ensure financial compliance, this policy is hereby formulated.

2. Reimbursable Expense Definitions

- Business gift expenses: Refers to expenditures on customized apparel, footwear, souvenirs, and other physical items for partners.
- Environmental maintenance expenses: Refers to essential venue cleaning tools (such as mops, brooms), disinfection supplies (such as wet wipes, disinfectant), containers (such as buckets), and necessary venue decoration consumables for conducting business activities.
- Ancillary expenses: Reasonable incidental expenses such as packaging materials and greeting cards that accompany the gifts shall be consolidated and counted with the main items.

3. Reimbursement Process

- Submit Application: The reimbursement handler must organize all original receipts and submit an application in the ERP system.
- Department Review: The department head (Manager level or above) conducts a preliminary review of the authenticity, timing, and location of the matter.
- Finance Review: The Finance Department conducts a compliance audit on the legality, printed format, and tax rates of the receipts.
- Payment Settlement: After approval, the reimbursement is credited to the company's public account or the employee's salary card.

4. Receipt & Authenticity Requirements

- Geographic scope limitation: The transaction location shown on the receipt must be consistent with the project-approved city (e.g., Alexandria City).

- Timeline consistency: The date on the receipt must fall within the project preparation or execution period.
- Receipt type: Only machine-printed receipts or invoices from legitimate retailers, supermarkets, or trading companies are accepted; handwritten receipts are strictly prohibited.
- Attachment support: Reimbursement must be accompanied by relevant project background materials, such as project plans, meeting notices, and work logs, to prove that the expenditure is directly related to business operations.

5. Multiple-Person Reimbursement Principles

For material preparation work jointly participated in by multiple persons, one specialist is permitted to advance payment centrally and process consolidated reimbursement, but the purpose and scope of beneficiaries must be stated in the reimbursement remarks.
