

Financial Reimbursement Compliance Manual

(Overseas Division)

1. Definition of Reimbursable Expenses

Procurement of low-value consumables and office supplies refers to various material expenditures with low unit value and short service life. In addition to the price of the goods, related local taxes and necessary minor shipping costs are considered part of the total reimbursement amount and must be declared together.

2. Reimbursement Audit Process

- (1) Submission: The claimant must organize original receipts and link them with relevant procurement application background materials after the business event in 2023.
- (2) Verification: The department head focuses on verifying whether the time (e.g., August 9, 2023) and city (Giza) on the receipt are consistent with the actual work plan.
- (3) Financial Review: The finance system will verify the validity of computer-printed receipts. All non-handwritten receipts must contain complete city-level location information.
- (4) Settlement: After successful review, funds will be paid uniformly on the monthly settlement day.

3. Receipt Compliance Requirements

Given the international reimbursement context, all receipts must be formal printed receipts containing clear dates, cities, and consumption details. Background documents are only allowed to mention the city-level location (e.g., Giza). Specific suppliers, restaurants, or store names are strictly prohibited in the background setup and must be displayed by the receipt itself as the core basis for the financial agent to judge its authenticity.
